FLIGHTSAFETY'S DASSAULT FALCON 7X AIRCRAFT TRAINING BEGINS AT PARIS-LE BOURGET LEARNING CENTER

New Falcon 7X simulator qualified to Level D by the DGAC and FAA

LA GUARDIA AIRPORT, New York (May 8, 2012) – FlightSafety International is pleased to announce that training for the Dassault Falcon 7X aircraft has begun at the Paris-Le Bourget Learning Center .

The new Falcon 7X simulator located at the Paris-LeBourget Center has received Level D qualification from the Direction Générale de l'Aviation Civile of France and the United States Federal Aviation Administration. Qualification by other regulatory agencies around the world will be applied for and obtained according to Customer needs.

“We are pleased to now offer Falcon 7X training in Paris,” said Bruce Whitman, President & CEO. “The DGAC and FAA Level D qualification of the new Falcon 7X simulator and start of training in Paris, shows our commitment to provide operators in Europe and the surrounding area with convenient access to our high quality training programs”

The simulator offers Enhanced Flight Visual System, Head-Up Guidance System, Emergency Vision Assurance System and Electronic Flight Bag. It will be compatible with the EASy II avionics software upgrades and will feature FlightSafety's electric motion and control loading technology and new VITAL X visual system.

Pilots, maintenance technicians, flight attendants and other aviation professionals who operate and support the Falcon 7X will benefit from FlightSafety's highly qualified and experienced instructors, comprehensive training programs, full flight simulator and MATRIX integrated training system.

FlightSafety currently provides professional training for the Falcon 10/100, Falcon 20, Falcon 50 and 50 EX, Falcon 200, Falcon 2000, 2000DX, 2000LX, 2000EX and 2000EX EASy, Falcon 900, 900C, 900DX, 900EX, 900EX EASy and Falcon 7X aircraft.
