FLIGHTSAFETY INTERNATIONAL NOW OFFERS EMBRAER ERJ 145 TRAINING IN SOUTH AFRICA

Embraer ERJ 145 simulator located in Johannesburg receives Level D qualification

LaGuardia Airport, New York (July 12, 2013) – FlightSafety International announces that it now offers training for the Embraer ERJ 145 aircraft in Johannesburg, South Africa. The Embraer ERJ 145 full flight simulator, installed at FlightSafety’s Learning Center in Johannesburg, has been qualified to Level D by the South African Civil Aviation Authority.

“We look forward to serving Embraer ERJ 145 aircraft operators in Johannesburg,” said Jim Christiansen, Vice President, Business Development. “FlightSafety and Embraer are committed to provide our mutual Customers with outstanding service and the highest quality training. The Level D qualification of FlightSafety’s ERJ 145 full flight simulator located in Johannesburg further demonstrates this commitment.”

“FlightSafety’s installation of an Embraer ERJ 145 Level D qualified simulator in Johannesburg will enhance the training our crews receive, and help to increase the efficiency of our operation,” said Captain Tammy Crouser, Head of Flight Training, South African AIRLINK. “We appreciate the support and responsiveness of FlightSafety and Embraer to the need for locally available training capability.”

“The installation of an ERJ 145 full flight simulator in South Africa is Embraer’s response to our firm commitment to support our African customers through excellent pilot training. Africa is a continent that has many cultural and economic ties with Brazil and Embraer. We are very proud and pleased to increase our presence in this very important area of the world,” said Luiz Hamilton Lima, Vice President Services & Support Commercial Aviation with Embraer.

FlightSafety serves Embraer as the factory-authorized training provider for the E-Jets family of commercial jets, as well as the Lineage and Legacy executive jets. Training for Embraer aircraft is offered by FlightSafety at eleven locations worldwide using a fleet of 24 full flight simulators and other advanced training devices.
